Year 1923 to See the American Navy Predominant Sea Force of World.

By F. A. BRITTEN of Illinois, Speech in House.

Mr. Speaker, with the assistance of the office of naval intelligence, I have made a very careful comparison between the first-line battleships and battle cruisers of Great Britain and of the United States navy, and I think I can prove without fear of successful contradiction that in first-line 20,000-ton ships of at least 20-knot speed, the United States now has, built and building, the most powerful navy in all the

$1.50 PER ANNUM IN ADVANCE

During the years 1916, 1917, and 1918, the United States has made tremendous strides in battleship authorizations, with the result that 1923 will see the American navy the predominant navy of the world and capable of defeating the navies of any three nations combined, excepting, of course, Great Britain. I find that we have 33 battleships and battle cruisers built and building, all of which will be available for action in 1923, while Great Britain has 35 first-line ships of the same character, thus giving England an advantage of two ships, which we immediately offset by greater speed and tonnage, bigger guns, superior muzzle velocity, heavier armor, and more

The American ships have a total tonnage of 1,118,650 tons as against as of February 28, 1920, showed the the British of 884,100 tons, showing a superiority of 234,550 tons or an advantage of 8,638 tons per ship, equaling 34.2 per cent. In average speed of all vessels we are practically the same, showing banks in the nation with capital, sur- a fraction less than 23.7 knots average per ship. In main batteries we show 340 guns to 314 for the British, with an erage of 10.3 big guns per ship to the British 8.97 guns per ship, while our guns will average 141/2-inch caliber as against the British 13 2-3-inch -28.7 per cent superiority. In the secondary battery our percentage of superiority is more than 33.

It is shown that one volley from all guns on our 33 ships will throw 588,638 pounds of steel as against 484,080 pounds from all British guns, side of a house fell on them while it growth of the National banks upon or an excess in our favor of 104,558 pounds, or 4,006 pounds per ship, or a superiority of 29 per cent. We find ourselves confronted with positive figures showing 34.2 per cent more tonnage, carrying larger guns, throwing 28.7 per cent more long-range steel, more modern ships, with greater radius of action and These figures compared with those power than England has ever possessed in first-line fighting ships. Post-War Attitude of Women and Girls

Toward Employment Is Alarming.

By MRS. W. E. CRAMER, Kansas City Employment Agent. Speaking generally, and with the understanding that there are excepions, the present attitude of women and girls toward work is alarming. The first thing the average woman specifies when she comes to me or work is the size of the salary she will "accept." Most of the war work that women did was very poor training. There were two kinds of war work, the kind that was mostly social prestige and salary, and the kind that was the real thing. The first produced a type of grafter-there is no other word for it-that is a menace to the cause

The second often hampered women who would have developed int good workers, with red tape and official delays, until they lost interest and found they could loaf, and now they think they can do the same thing

The women who had been in the first kind of war work were the first o hunt for cover when the war ended. They besieged "publicity offices," they were graciously willing to manage somebody's business for him; and very single one of them who had managed to get overseas wanted to lecture" on how she did it, at $60 a week and expenses.

The result? Well, men complain to me constantly about the women send them. They say they do not even pretend to be interested in the kind of work they are to do, but state first of all: "I will accept $150 And the head of a national political organization has said to me since the campaign began: "If the Lord forgives me for putting women

Joseph Bowne Elwell was a sham. He was part of the sham which cludes the lights of Broadway and the little early hours which bring dawn to this city, and regret. Many similar cases go milling through the courts here, different only in that romance is less dominant, because there is less money with which to disguise sordidness.

A type of girl the present day is developing is marked with an almost pagan taste for pleasure and the willingness to pay almost any price for luxury. She brooks no restraint; recognizes no duties to family nor so-Duffy is captain, will be mustered into ciety; her sole interest is herself and satisfaction of "I." This type, I presume, made up the little moths which dashed themselves against the flame of Elwell's personality, with all its lure of mystery and fame of feminine There are hundreds scattered through the cabarets and restaurants of Broadway at this very minute. And there are hundreds fluttering about throughout the land. For moths go flame-seeking in villages and hamlets and in the wide spaces quite as faithfully as they do in New York. You see it is the moth element, really, which creates the flame. Without the poor blind things dashing themselves to death, there would be Mexican Border and in local troubles.

At the present time, the work is being no object for the flame existing. That is the answer. When women have
